CLEAN THESE PLACES TO
Cut back on germs

Sneezes, coughs and handshakes aren’t the only way to spread disease-causing germs. The home is a huge collector of viruses, bacteria and allergy-inducing dust mites. Target these germ-harboring hotspots often to create a healthy living space for your family.

1. PILLOWCASES AND SHEETS
Beds that cause pinkeye. Wash pillowcases and sheets weekly in hot water and detergent.

2. TOYS
Germs can linger on hard plastic toys for up to 24 hours. Wipe or dunk the toy in a homemade bleach solution or an EPA-registered disinfectant, then let it stand for three to five minutes before rinsing with clean water.

3. DISH TOWELS
A study, more than eight in 10 homes had moderate to heavy bacterial growth on kitchen towels. Machine-wash them often using the hot cycle. Replace sponges frequently.

4. SINKS
In the same study, half of kitchen sinks harbored disease-causing bacteria. Wash them frequently with hot, soapy water.

5. CUTTING BOARDS
Wash wooden, plastic, glass or metal boards in the dishwasher. Sanitize counter tops with a solution of 1 tablespoon bleach in a gallon of water. Replace worn or cracked boards.

6. DOOR-KNOBS
Give them a good wipe, and you’ll wonder how handles and knobs pose a risk. Wipe them with disinfectant or a bleach solution.

7. SMARTPHONES
One study found that 81 percent of mobile phones played host to infection-causing microbes. Wipe yours down frequently with cloths specially designed to sterilize electronics.

8. COMPUTER MICE
Wash your hands frequently to reduce the spread of germs on your mouse, then wipe the mouse down with antibacterial pads.
